TCU Place now has Global Biorisk Advisory Council® (GBAC) STAR™ accreditation for outbreak prevention, response, and recovery. GBAC STAR™ is the gold standard of prepared facilities and provides third-party validation that facilities have rigorous protocols in place for thorough response to biorisk situations.

PUBLIC HEALTH ORDER UPDATE

Masks and Proof of Vaccination are no longer required for guests in our building as of February 28, in line with updated guidance from the Government of Saskatchewan. Additional health precautions may be necessary when adjusting to specific requirements of event promoters and organizers. It is expected that some shows will continue to require that guests show either proof of vaccination or negative test result. This will be managed in a similar way to when promoters require specific adjustments to security measures.

Employee Screening / Masks

Team leaders will continue to check in with their teams on a regular basis to ensure wellness. Employees considered unfit to work will be instructed to immediately return home and consider testing or isolating based on symptoms. TCU Place Staff are mandated to wear masks at all times during events until at least March 14, when the policy will be re-evaluated.

Employee Training

All employees have received training on pandemic prevention practices in order to protect themselves and all other building users.
